Summer 2011 Highlights

There is a tradition at Project Transformation each summer, that on move-in day at SMU, each intern is "introduced" into a room filled with interns, staff and alumni, by announcing (at the top of your lungs): HEY PT! MEET _____!!!! And the room goes wild. While some interns embrace this tradition and some wonder what they've gotten themselves into, it is a starting point; to break the ice and make connections with people who will become teammates, roommates, and in many cases, life-long friends. By the end of the summer, that same room is filled with hugs and tears as they say goodbye. Not only did these 103 young adults from 13 states and 65 different colleges develop meaningful relationships with each other, but they came together to serve as one body, investing in the lives of over 1,000 underserved children and youth at nine site churches. These young adults share how this program impacted their lives, in such a short amount of time:

"This has been a truly transformational opportunity for me. It has made me feel alive and purposeful again. I am so blessed to have been a part of this program this summer."
-Kristen Singletary, youth mountain biking intern
"This summer, I have sharpened my ability to work with children and interact with many different kinds of people. I have enjoyed worshipping God in many different ways and seeing God work powerfully in the lives of all those touched by this ministry."

-Matt Peisen, St. Mark's UMC intern
"My time served with Project Transformation and the children here have been nothing short of life-changing in the best way possible"
-Roderick Dickerson, Chapel Hill UMC intern

Each day, children were able to read one-on-one with an adult volunteer, increasing their interest and ability to read. Over 1,200 volunteers served through 88 partner churches and outreach programs, providing 7,168 hours of reading time for children. As a result, 97% of children maintained or improved their reading comprehension over the summer months. Over 40,000 meals were served through the North Texas Food Bank food program at PT, and healthy snack bags were sent home on weekends with each of the children. We are thankful to each person who made this program possible. You helped provide an experience of a lifetime for our interns, children and youth.

Project Transformation

Intern Blog

Each summer, our interns spend time reflecting on their experiences from community living, with their children and youth at site, and in their own personal and spiritual growth. We highlight these experiences on our PT Intern Blog, which can be found on our website for both the summer and after-school program perspectives.

Summer intern, Andrew Wilson, shares, "I love when God places someone in your path at just the right time. It is like when I was little and I would get hot wheel cars and crash them into each other. Those hot wheel cars always ended up alright, but if that were to happen in real life and with real cars then they could never be the same. That is what has been happening to me ever Tuesday night at worship service. God's ideas have been colliding with my ideas and I can say it has changed me." Read the rest of his story.

Friday Experience

Friday Experiences are such a critical part of the intern experience at Project Transformation. Many times, we hear individuals ask why we do not hold summer camp program for children and youth on Fridays. Fridays are reserved for our interns to reflect on their week in working with children, explore a variety of opportunities to continue to be in ministry and service, and discern where God is calling them to serve. We believe that PT should be a springboard into ministry for these interns, and not a one-time experience. Friday Experiences show the tangible ways that interns can continue to connect their passions with the needs in the world. This summer, 19 different ministries and non-profit organizations hosted our interns. They spent their Fridays in a variety of ways, including interacting with a panel of ordained clergy who shared their call stories, serving the homeless with the Soup Mobile, touring Methodist Health System and hearing from chaplains, medical professionals as well as the CEO, touring Methodist Children's Home in Waco, learning about the complex challenges of immigration with Justice for Our Neighbors, exploring the needs of urban education with a PT alumna who serves as an assistant principal in Irving ISD, and spending a day at Perkins School of Theology, sitting in on classes and hearing from Dean William Lawrence. These visits bring to life the many examples of how these young adults can live out their faith. For many interns, Friday Experiences open doors to future volunteer and career opportunities. One intern shared, "Due to the Friday Experiences at Perkins, I am now strongly considering attending seminary. Before that day, I was dead-set against graduate school. This experience has broadened my horizons in a very concrete way." In fact, 21% of this summer's interns report that as a result of their experience with PT, they plan to change their course of study in school, which common examples being youth ministry, seminary, social work, and education. And an astounding 98% of our interns plan to serve their communities through volunteer work after PT ends.

Urban Camp - Bridgeport

Urban Camp is an exciting opportunity at the end of the summer for our youth (grades 6-9) to go to an overnight camp. It allows youth from low socio-economic backgrounds to experience a week of abundant love, encouragement, and inspiration. Youth participate in activities, such as archery, horseback riding, ropes courses, fishing, swimming, cooking, newspaper and other sport-centered activities. Youth are assigned to cabins with the interns who have been serving with them during the summer, which serves to strengthen the relationships formed through the previous eight weeks of day camp. Many of these youth boast it is the best week of their life, and the only time they are able to leave their communities.

In addition to our campers, 33 participants in our LITE program (Leaders in Training Experience) attended camp as junior counselors. These high school students, who were placed in leadership roles during the summer, participated in a weeklong leadership course at camp as well as help facilitated different activities throughout the week. The goal of the program is to encourage these students in their faith and leadership development, as well as inspire them to finish school and to stay away from pressures they face in their neighborhoods, such as gangs and drugs.

One of our participants shared the effect that Urban Camp has had on her life for the past two summers: "My family and I lost our home because of the recession. So my sister and I had to step in and pay bills. I had so much pressure, I felt like I was going to fail and we weren't going to make it. But PT helped me to understand all I need is to put my faith, home and trust in God. Before coming to camp, I was depressed, and out of place to the point I cut my wrist. I thought hurting myself was an escape from reality but then I came to Bridgeport and realized I don't need pain; all I need is to believe in God. Thanks to Urban Camp, I love myself everyday more and more, because I have a purpose to be here and that's to help others like PT does every year." 16 year old youth participant

Support PT With Year-End Gift

While Project Transformation has enjoyed generous support from so many people, churches and organizations this past year, we are not immune to the current recession and are anticipating a shortfall of close to $70,000 by fiscal year-end (August 31). Our budget for 2010-11 is $1,057,721, with 80% directly supporting program services. We invite you to consider making an investment in the life-changing work of Project Transformation by making a donation by mail or online. With your help, this program will continue to touch the lives of hundreds of underserved children and youth while encouraging young adults to step into a life of ministry.

Gifts that are postmarked by August 31 will help us meet our year-end goal. Thank you for your continued prayers and support.
